

SAVE THE DATE FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

-- Do we have to do the weekly date ideas?

No. They are just fun suggestions. However, we do want you to go away from the date feeling like you spent some quality time together...where you actually had conversation and asked each other questions that were not related to home management / kids / work.

-- Do double dates count?

Yes, but don't make them the norm. However, you must tell the other couple that you're counting this as a date for the "Save the Date" Challenge....and share with them what it's all about. Perhaps you can get some new date ideas from them! Or have a question that all 4 of you can have fun answering. Don't forget to snap a fun pic of the 4 of you!

-- Do dates at home after the kids go to bed count?

Yes. Absolutely. We understand you gotta do what you gotta do, right? The point is intentional, undivided time with one another. (Try not to make them the norm, guys. Your wife might get tired of dates at home.)

-- Can we do more than one date in a week?

No. Well, you can, but only one will count for the challenge. One date a week, three weeks out of the month. That is the challenge. Cramming in three dates the last week of the month is not the idea.

-- Can you define "intentional"?

Intentional is something that has been planned. You have done it on purpose. You are deliberate in making it a date ahead of time. You have "put it on the calendar." It is not a "spur of the moment" event or one that you do, then decide afterwards that it was a great date idea.

-- Do we have to take a photo?

Yes. This is the way we are documenting the date. It does not have to be a selfie. If you don't like your picture taken, be creative. Take one of you holding hands on top of the menu or your shoes as you go on a walk together.

-- When does the photo and quick description need to be sent to get credit?

All photos need to be received by Friday for the week you just finished. In other words, do not send 3 weeks of photos at one time. We suggest sending it right after you take it. That way it's date/time stamped and you're done!

-- What if we forgot to send in our picture?

We are here to keep you accountable as we want everyone to make it all twelve months. We will be sending you reminders, so you will be successful!

-- Does attending one of our kid's sporting events / school events count?

No. However, if you want to make some time alone before or after the event to dedicate to each other, then, yes! A date needs to be without your children and should be a time when you can have an uninterrupted and intentional conversation. Ask us for more details on this if you are interested.

-- Do we have to do a cruise from Galveston, TX if we are the winners?

No. However, we have dedicated a specific dollar amount for the cruise. If you want to pay the difference to cruise out of a different port, that is fine. We will not give more money than what has been allocated.

-- I don't like cruises. Can we do something different or give it away?

The intent is a week away with your spouse and we feel this is the best means to do that. This is not transferable. If your name is drawn and you decide you don't want the cruise, we will draw another name.
